Q: PL/SQL: delete not null value in order by in delete statement I need to delete some data from a table (reference table) based on the table I want to delete from (non reference table), and only if there are any values left in column 'x' in the non reference table. The value of column 'x' in the non reference table has to be null, if it is not, the values should be deleted with the order by statement. If it is null, an error should be returned. This is the code I have at the moment: DELETE FROM myTable WHERE ID IN (
