The meeting of the Permanent Council of the OSCE Minsk Group Co-Chairs on the settlement of the Karabakh conflict has been held in Berlin, Russian Foreign Ministry Spokeswoman Maria Zakharova told reporters on Friday. "The press service of the OSCE Minsk Group Co-Chairs informed us that the meeting of the Permanent Council of the OSCE Minsk Group Co-Chairs on the settlement of the Karabakh conflict took place in Berlin on July 12. Representatives of Armenia, Azerbaijan and the United States are taking part in the event," she said. "Apart from representatives of the Minsk Group Co-Chairs, a representative of the European Union and the deputy head of the OSCE mission to Azerbaijan are also taking part in the meeting," Zakharova said. "In this connection, we would like to draw attention to the fact that this is the first such meeting of the Permanent Council of the Minsk Group since the establishment of the group," the Russian foreign ministry spokeswoman said.Such an interdigital electrode is known from U.S. Pat. No. 3,850,542. This known interdigital electrode is intended for use as a secondary battery electrode, for example, in a lithium-ion cell. The interdigital electrode is made of a very thin foil of conductive metal, which is usually steel. The interdigital electrode is perforated with holes, which provide access to the current collector layer, the current collector layer being in the shape of a conductive grid. The material of the current collector layer and the material of the interdigital electrode are selected so that the electrode is conductive. The electrode is supplied with charge by means of a current collector. A possible way of making an interdigital electrode is to coat a layer of conductive material onto the foil of the inter
