It is about to change so Autodesk is starting to do the same to cater to the new OS. You can use the 'forums' on Autocad LT to find out more information about the new software. It will need to work very differently from what you are used to. Knowledge of the molecular nature of the NFkappaB pathway may be key to understanding its role in developing human gliomas, as well as identifying potential therapeutic targets. In adult rodent glia, the NFkappaB transcription factor is activated during immune responses, stress, and numerous cell death-inducing factors;however, in glioma cells, this transcription factor is constitutively active and required for invasion. Roles for NFkappaB in glioma formation and progression remain to be fully elucidated. The goal of this proposal is to characterize glioma cells for a role for NFkappaB in growth and survival, and to identify potential molecular targets of the pathway. The research will test the hypothesis that NFkappaB is activated by growth factors and mitogens in glioma cells and required for the proliferation and survival of these cells, and ultimately for the formation of aggressive tumors. First, molecular mechanisms of NFkappaB activation will be examined. The regulation of NFkappaB will be analyzed at the levels of protein stability and nuclear translocation. Second, the NFkappaB-dependent phenotype will be analyzed in glioma cell lines with altered levels of NFkappaB. Third, information gained in this proposal will be integrated with the
