Category: Desktop Screenshots: Get Icon Pack "Western Digital Icon Pack" from 1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a portable storage device of which the data is writable, and more particularly to a data read/write (R/W) function using a non-volatile memory device, and a data R/W method and apparatus using the same. 2. Discussion of Related Art The R/W functions of non-volatile memories are widely used in consumer products such as mobile phones, digital cameras, personal digital assistants (PDAs), mobile personal computers (mPCs) and so on. A typical non-volatile memory comprises a memory cell array and a page buffer, and the data is stored in the page buffer. In general, the page buffer is connected to the memory cell array through a data bus and the data is read from or written to the page buffer in response to a page buffer controller. As the number of memory cells which are simultaneously selected in the page buffer increases, a large number of corresponding data is outputted in response to a memory cell controller. In a mobile product, the mobile product and an R/W device are often separated from each other to prevent the loss of data. In addition, the R/W devices of the products can be separately located. For example, the R/W devices can be located in a central processing unit (CPU) module or a compact disc (CD) drive module. If the R/W devices are separated from each other, the number of signal lines connecting the R/W devices and the CPU module is greatly increased, and the size of the mobile product increases. The above references are incorporated by reference herein where appropriate for appropriate teachings of additional or alternative details, features and/or technical background., and that, as plaintiffs have been convicted under the statute, that they have exhausted their remedies and that the matters raised here are now moot. Since there is no proof that defendant's conduct was so arbitrary and oppressive as to deny them their constitutional rights, plaintiffs' petition must be dismissed. Defendant's motion to dismiss the complaint is granted. NOTES [1] The relevant portion of the Florida statute is as follows: "Whoever... by mistake, inadvertently or otherwise,
