Primasoft Text Crack For Windows is a simple tool program that helps you avoid typing in the same text over and over again. You tell the program what parts of your work are similar, and then it hides those parts so that you can concentrate on the different. It takes about 5 minutes to learn and 6 hours to master. PrimaSoft Text operates on a notion that we all have "boring" information within our work. What we want to do is encode information and then have it "live" so we can quickly access it. We forget things all the time, and Primasoft Text is sort of designed to keep your work useful. For example, you may have written a paper where the first part is a fleshed out thesis, and then you have a list of points that you repeatedly do as you write. Your journal or class handout might be the same as you have already written it. You may have a Word document where you write one paragraph and then paste in a word document a paragraph of a review paper that you have written. We all do this all the time. This script is trying to optimize your typing, not your writing. We all "borrow" other people's thoughts and techniques all the time. This script is trying to ensure that you don't waste all your time retyping. Using Primasoft Text: PrimaSoft Text works in Windows 95 through Windows 7. You can get a free version to see if it suits you. There is one negative side to the product. When it hides text, it doesn't create a visual for that text. So you have to actually type it out again. This can be a problem in some respects. For example, one of my papers has a section called "Case Study" I don't want to have to write this over and over, so I have it hidden. I'm going to type out the information and then copy it into the case study, so I can't really use it as a reference. As time goes on, I'm just going to remember how that information goes and cut and paste it. There is a great tutorial on the Primasoft Text website that can help you learn the basics. However, I would recommend that you master it before trying to learn how to script it. Here is a copy of the tutorial: Here is a copy of the help file: 09e8f5149f
