Download Philips Protech Audio Format Converter 2.1.3.1.Q: pass list to a function in python I have a list called favorite_tracks_list and I want to pass it to a function as arguments. def get_favorite_tracks(self, movie): print favorite_tracks_list In my function I have this line: favorite_tracks_list = self.movie.get_favorite_tracks() But this just means, pass the instance(self) of the class and not the list. Am I doing this right? If I'm not, what should I do? A: I would just keep a list in the class (since it's available in every instance anyway) and set self.favorite_tracks = [] in __init__ and then set self.favorite_tracks = movie.get_favorite_tracks() in your get_favorite_tracks method. If you do it this way, you don't need to change the function's arguments. You can just say: self.favorite_tracks = movie.get_favorite_tracks() If you want to pass a list to the function anyway, you can just call the function directly: self.get_favorite_tracks(movie.get_favorite_tracks()) Shattered (Wunderkind album) Shattered is the fifth studio album by Swedish Christian metal band Wunderkind.
